

How to find the product you want

The Connevans catalogue is full of useful information both technical and practical. However unless you are a professional from a local authority, school, clinic or advice centre you are unlikely to need all of it!

Here is a quick guide of the ways to help you find the product you want:

INDEX If you know the name of the product then please use the index on pages 251-253.

SECTIONS If you know the kind of product you want then please choose the appropriate section where you can browse product details.

EVALUATION & COMPARISON Look for comments from our evaluation panel which can help you decide and use the comparison charts to identify which product has the features you need.

ICONS You will notice that many products have icons which give you a quick reminder of the kind of product it is and how it would be used. For example – whether it is for use with or without hearing aids.

Equipment to help hearing aid wearers

Hearing aid users on 'T'

Assistive listening devices for non hearing aid users

To help you choose alerting devices, we use icons to indicate the type of alert:

SOUND – such as especially loud alerts

VISION – usually indicates a flashing light

VIBRATION – products which vibrate to alert you

WEBSITE Our websites www.connevans.info and www.DeafEquipment.co.uk are an excellent source of information and are updated regularly. Where you see this icon more detailed information is available online at www.DeafEquipment.co.uk

QUOTATIONS Some products have a wide range of accessories and our sample quotations allow you to select a complete system that meets your requirements and contains everything you need. They provide a really easy way to order all the components of a system such as a radio aid.

IN DEPTH Product user guides are available online – reading them can be a very valuable way of assessing whether or not a product will prove suitable for a particular person. For example, some people love to have a product with lots of features while others just want a straightforward product that is simple to use with minimal setting up.

DDA If you are looking for equipment to help you offer facilities in line with the DDA (Equality Act 2010), then either choose a complete package from pages 239-242 or look for the DDA icon.

SCENARIOS Overleaf we show you some product solutions you may not have known existed – Solutions to improve your quality of life

WARRANTY Product warranty is 1 year as standard; products with longer warranties are identified with an icon in the product information.
